1. Grossenhain Airfield near Dresden has one workshops building and three hangars, each measuring roughly 90 x 45 meters.
2. A control tower with W/T and radar dominates the field. Some three kilometers northeast of the landing strip, there is a gasoline dump which consists of four 250-barrel tanks. At the moment two tanks are empty, one is full, and one is in use. Both the control tower and the dump are guarded by one officer and ten men.
3. The Soviet Air Force Ground Staff is estimated to number about 300 men. There is also a cadre of about 50 men and 500 flying pupils, wearing the same colors, aged 18-28, and of smarter appearance.
4. The following aircraft types were observed at the field:
 - a. Sixteen "Boston 3" machines (bi-motor, described as "einfaches Trag-, Hohen- und Seitenleitwerk, Fahrwerk beim Fliegen eingezogen, Rumpf- und Motorensteisse").
